DETAILED ACTION

1. The drawings are considered to be informal because they fail to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(a)(1) which requires black and white drawings using India ink or its equivalent.

Photographs and color drawings are acceptable only for examination purposes unless a petition filed under 37 CFR 1.84(a)(2) or (b)(1) is granted permitting their use as formal drawings. In the event applicant wishes to use the drawings currently on file as formal drawings, a petition must be filed for acceptance of the photographs or color drawings as formal drawings. Any such petition must be accompanied by the appropriate fee as set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(I), three sets of drawings or photographs, as appropriate, and, if filed under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.84(a)(2), an amendment to the first paragraph of the brief description of the drawings section of the specification which states:

The file of this patent contains at least one drawing executed in color. Copies of this patent with color drawing(s) will be provided by the Patent and Trademark Office upon request and payment of the necessary fee.

Color photographs will be accepted if the conditions for accepting color drawings have been satisfied.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over

Marshall(U.S. Patent No.5,675,746) in view of Risberg et al (U.S. Patent No.5,339,392) and further in view of Lauer et al (US Patent No. 5,523,769).

4. Consider claims 1-38. Marshall discloses A system for dynamically displaying graphic symbols and value information for financial instruments comprising (column 3, lines 52-63): the means of a first and second input port to receive a feed containing identifiers and corresponding values of financial instruments (column 4, lines 28-39, column 8, lines 22-37); a filter to extract from the feed the identifiers and corresponding values of the financial instruments (column 4, lines 39-47, column 8, lines 1-5, column 12, lines 16-57); an input Processor comprising a memory to store the extracted financial instrument identifiers and corresponding values (column 4, lines 48-67, column 5, lines 39-60, column 12, lines 16-57) a database/memory that stores graphic symbols and that can be accessed by financial instrument identifiers to provide graphic symbols corresponding to the financial instrument identifiers in the feed (column 4, lines 48-67, column 5, lines 39-60, column 12, lines 16-57); display signals containing metaphors/polygons and corporate logos representing variations in shapes, colors, positions, animations and textures as different characteristics of the financial data (column 6, lines 22-47), however, does not disclose display controller, or the means of a scrolling ticker display with current financial and market information, routing switches, bit-map data means. Risberg et al disclose display controller (column 1, lines 59-68), the means of a scrolling ticker display with current financial and market information (

Figure 3, elements 32, 34, 36, column 1, lines 59-68), the means of the routing switches (column 47, lines 47-52, column 48, lines 20-52, bit-map data means (column 24, line 65 through column 26, line 9). It would have been obvious to combine the display controlling means and scrolling ticker display means of Risberg et al with the financial information apparatus of Marshall because they share similar functions of observing and evaluating financial information represented through dynamic polygons and corporate logos containing financial data. Specifically, Risberg et al teach tickers, i.e., streams of trade data for various stocks (column 1, lines 60-64). However, Risberg et al does not disclose the means of a video wall display. Lauer et al disclose the means of a video wall display with each module having it's own display device and display means (Figures 1a, 1b, 3-6, column 3, line 57 through column 5, line 22). It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the invention to utilize the teachings of the wall size display means of Lauer et al with the teachings of the virtual reality generator for use with financial information (column 1, lines 5-7) because Lauer et al's plural display means serves as a display output device of a large screen for the signals of Marshall that utilize displays driven in real time (column 1, lines 15-35).

Conclusion
